Housing in a Changing Community: Opportunity for Innovation

Gwyn's presentation will examine the state of housing and community infrastructure in Prince George and explore opportunities and options for creative and innovative development and redevelopment. He will focus on some of the challenges facing Prince George and how it may respond to change. Gwyn will also review how land use planning can assist in strengthening the economy including supporting small business and economic development.

Gwyn is the founder of CitySpaces Consulting, one of Canada's most innovative design and planning firms. His career has included work in communities throughout British Columbia, Ontario, and the United Kingdom. A land use planner by training, Gwyn is a member of the Canadian Institute of Planners and the Planning Institute of BC.
