“Some New Work (Especially Poetry)”

Presenter: Janet Rogers, UNBC Writer in Residence

UNBC's Writer in Residence program is made possible by the Canada Council for the Arts and the UNBC Office of Research

"Award-winning author and former Poet Laureate for the City of Victoria, Janet Rogers is the latest Writer in Residence at the University of Northern British Columbia. Janet is a Mohawk/Tuscarora poet and performer, and has authored four collections of poetry, performed on three poetry CDs, and produced two radio documentaries. Both of her documentaries won awards at the "imagine Native Film and Media Festival." Janet has been writing up a storm during her residency at UNBC and would like to present new work (poetry) inspired by the north and other Indigenous things."
