Frizzell's Hotsprings on the south bank of the Skeena, pictured in 1936. The now unused springs are upriver from Essington, just to the left of the towers which were built around the Skeena in 1930.

Fun in the Hotsprings in 1936. At one time the Frizzells had eight cabins and an apartment house there with two tanks at the hot-springs, the larger one being 18 feet long, 10 feet wide and six feet deep.
