

Citation format

The Anthropology Program follows the style format of the Society for American Archaeology (SAA), as used in the journal American Antiquity. This is an in text citation format as displayed in the example below.

Text example:

Recent results from butchering experiments with stone tool have shown that unretouched flakes are capable of piercing through elephant hide (Smith 1999:312).

Author Year Page no.

In the bibliography this would be cited as:

Smith, Erasmus

1999 Experimental butchering tests with chipped stone flakes. Journal of Archaeological Science 87:310-315.

In the bibliography:

For journal articles, italicize or underline journal title:

Smith, J. and B. Hunter,

2007 Winter temperatures and attendance in university classes in Prince George, B.C. Journal of Interesting Educational Trivia 65: 23-34.

For chapters in books, italicize or underline book title:

Ford, S.

2000 How to annoy your friends and win debates. In: The Fine Art of the Argument, edited by I.B. Silly and I.M. Not, pp. 165-172. The Very Big Press Corporation, Los Angeles.

For books, italicize or underline book title:

Banana, B. C.,

2009 Fruits for Your Pleasure. Grapevine Press, London.

For web page:

Marston, H.K.

2010 Archaeology Laboratory at UNBC. Electronic document.

<http://www.unbc.ca/anth>, accessed February 12, 2010

The SAA style guide is available at:

<http://www.saa.org/Publications/StyleGuide/saaguide.pdf>