Learning objectives are written statements that describe measurable achievements an individual goals to accomplish. As such, WIL programs use learning objectives to help students direct their learning throughout work terms and focus on their career goals.

Personal learning objectives can be improving areas such as interpersonal communication, adaptability and other social skills that assist with work ethic and output.

Professional learning objectives can be improving areas such as practicing or improving a skill, learning new tasks, solving specific problems and/or other professional attributes to assist with work performance and career goals.

For this assignment, please identify three personal and three professional learning objectives you wish to develop and how you will ensure learning in these areas by the end of your work term. The goal is to consult with your employer supervisor about your personal and professional learning objectives so your supervisor can provide feedback but also assist you with achieving your goals.

Be sure to write SMART learning objective answers:

S pecific

M easurable

A chievable

R ealistic
