

Graduate Teaching Assistant

College of Science & Management Part time, Term

The College of Science and Management (CSAM) values excellence in teaching; an interdisciplinary and a collaborative approach to learning and scholarship built upon a foundation of disciplinary excellence. Through our teaching, we support learning in the sciences, business administration, and management of natural resources and environments, in ways that are recognized internationally for their roots in foundational knowledge, their value to rural and remote communities, citizens and industries, and their global pertinence.

Currently the College of Science and Management invites applications for part-time term positions as Graduate Teaching Assistants. To see a list of available positions and start dates, please refer to the Graduate Teaching Assistant Positions spreadsheet available on the Graduate Teaching Assistant webpage.

The successful applicant will be responsible for, but not limited to, course preparation, laboratory contact and preparation, delivery of laboratory classes, course and exam attendance, holding office hours, out of class student support, and evaluating and grading student exams and assignments.

Applicants for this position must be a Master's or PhD student currently enrolled in a UNBC graduate program, as well as present a deep understanding of the material in the undergraduate courses being applied for. Applicants should list any relevant courses they have previously taken. Other combinations of education and experience may be considered.

Since its founding in 1990, the University of Northern British Columbia (UNBC) has emerged as one of Canada's best small research-intensive universities, with a passion for teaching, discovery, people, and the North. Located in the spectacular landscape near the geographic centre of beautiful British Columbia, UNBC's excellence is derived from community-inspired research, hands-on learning, and alumni who are leading change around the world.

For the past 10 years, UNBC has placed in the top three in its category in the annual Maclean's university rankings, the only University of its size to achieve that feat. UNBC also recently placed among the top four per cent of higher education institutions worldwide by the Times Higher Education World University Rankings.

With a diverse student population, the University is friendly, inclusive, and supportive. Prince George is a city of ~74,000 people with impressive cultural, educational, and recreational amenities. For more information about living and working in Prince George, please refer to <http://www.unbc.ca/experience> and <https://moveupprincegeorge.ca>. Make your mark with this leading post-secondary institution.

To Apply

Applicants should submit an electronic version of their curriculum vitae and the Graduate Teaching Assistant Application Form quoting course title and number to: Human Resources, University of Northern British Columbia, 3333 University Way, Prince George, BC V4N 4Z9. Electronic submissions of the Graduate Teaching Assistant Application Form can be forwarded to: GraduateTAREcruit@unbc.ca.

The University of Northern British Columbia is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from women, aboriginal peoples, persons with disabilities and members of visible minorities.

We thank all applicants for their interest in UNBC however, only those applicants selected for further consideration will be contacted.