

Housing Solutions for Changing Communities

“Housing from a Planner’s Perspective” Workshop

David Block

Director of Development Services
City of Terrace

David holds degrees/certificates from Simon Fraser University (1995) in Geography (BA) and Urban Studies and a Master’s Degree in Environmental Design (MEDes) in Urban Planning at the University of Calgary (2003). In his career as a professional planner, David has worked in both the private and public sectors. David has varied experience ranging from residential subdivision and commercial and industrial development to heritage planning, affordable housing, urban design and a wide range of other community planning initiatives.

David has been working with the City of Terrace since January of 2004 initially as the City Planner and since 2012 as the Director of Development Services and Municipal Approving Officer. David is actively involved in the Planning Institute of BC and currently serves in the role of Chair for the Central North Chapter in this professional association. David is married and has three children ages 16, 12 and 11 and enjoys the sense of community and the beautiful natural setting found in the City of Terrace.