Expecting Peaceful Change? The Canada-US Security Community After Donald Trump

Dr. Will Greaves

Assistant Professor, International Relations
University of Victoria

The Trump presidency badly damaged the Canada-US relationship. With Donald Trump gone from office, how do we assess the state of that relationship and the durability of the North American security community it has produced? This presentation reflects on the recent past, troubled present, and uncertain future of Canada-US security relations in the wake of the Trump presidency, the fallout of the 2020 US election, and the ongoing covid-19 pandemic.
