Section 1: General Information

1.1 General Information

The Northern Pathways to Medicine Program and Bursary is a new initiative at the University of Northern British Columbia funded by the Northern Medical Program Trust (NMPT). This program has been established for high school graduates of schools within Northern Central Local Government Association (NCLGA) communities whose long term goal is to attend medical school, but for whom the path may be difficult because of financial and social challenges. In addition to financial support for undergraduate course work, recipients will be joining the Northern Pathways to Medicine Program. Up to three bursaries will be offered per year.

In order to receive a Northern Pathways to Medicine Bursary and join the program, students must be independently accepted to an undergraduate program at the University of Northern British Columbia, where they will complete their pre-medical studies. As part of the program, recipients will be provided with support to help them reach the admission requirements for the MD program and build their application. Annual renewal of the bursary and thus participation in the program will be dependent upon participating students meeting the following criteria:

- A minimum annual GPA of 3.33
- Participation in the Northern Pathways sessions for the academic year
- Participation in biannual progress meetings with the Program Director or designate
- Participation in annual or biannual focus groups designed to assist the program in meeting the needs of scholars
- Ongoing participation in volunteer activities as would be expected of traditional MD applicants
- A full course load per year of 8-10 ten courses

1.2 Bursary Program Details

The Northern Pathways to Medicine Program and Bursary will consist of the following elements:

- Support of up to $10,000 per year, to a maximum of four years (contingent upon successful progress within the program)

Northern Medical Programs Trust

A PARTNERSHIP OF NORTHERN BRITISH COLUMBIA COMMUNITIES AND UNBC

- Identification of a faculty member in the Northern Medical Program to act in a mentorship role
- Access to a MCAT preparatory course
- A paid summer student research experience within the NMP or UNBC during the summer after third year
- Participation in an enrichment program for students throughout the duration of the undergraduate degree

1.3 Bursary Eligibility

The Northern Pathways to Medicine Bursary is open to any individual graduating from high school or who has less than 30 credits at a post-secondary institution. Students must independently apply for and be accepted into an undergraduate degree program of choice for study at University of Northern British Columbia. Applicants must intend to apply to the UBC Northern Medical Program and must be graduates of a high school within a NCGLA community. (<http://www.ncgl.ca/>)

The Northern Pathways to Medicine Bursary is specifically for individuals who come from a financially and/or socially challenged background. The exact definition of “financially disadvantaged” can be determined using BC loans financial aid guidelines (<https://studentaidbc.ca/>), and through consultation with the Awards and Financial Aid office. <https://www.unbc.ca/financial-aid>

In evaluating potential recipients, care will be taken to include financially disadvantaged students from rural backgrounds, with a special interest in applicants from Northern First Nations communities. The Northern Pathways to Medicine Selection Committee reserves the right to apply some flexibility in the use of these cut offs when assessing the degree to which an individual applicant meets the objectives of the bursary program.

For the 2018-2019 application cycle only, currently registered first year students at UNBC may apply.

1.4 Eligibility based on Citizenship

Northern Pathways to Medicine Bursaries are restricted to British Columbia residents. Applicants are considered BC residents if they hold a currently valid BC CareCard or BC Services Card by the application deadline.

You must be a Canadian citizen or landed immigrant (permanent resident) in order to apply. We do not accept applications from individual international applicants or visa students. If you are accepted, you must provide proof that you had this status by March 1st of the application year.

2.2 Submitting Preliminary Application Materials

Materials must be submitted electronically to the Office of the Registrar at the University of Northern British Columbia.

2.3 Evaluation of Preliminary Application Materials

Preliminary Application materials will be reviewed by members of the NP2M Selection Committee, short listed candidates will be selected to complete a secondary application and then possible finalists chosen for a personal interview. Applicants not invited to submit a full application will be notified of the committee's decision as soon as possible.

Section 3: Financially and Socially Challenged Background

3.1 What is “Socially and Financially Disadvantaged Background” mean?

The exact definition of “financially disadvantaged” can be determined using BC loans financial aid guidelines at <https://studentaidbc.ca/apply/eligibility>, and through consultation with the Awards and Financial Aid Office at <https://www.unbc.ca/financial-aid>. The Awards and Financial Aid Office will send you forms to fill out regarding financial aid once you have applied for the bursary to determine your eligibility.

3.2 How Rigid is this Cutoff?

The NP2M Selection Committee recognizes that there are circumstances in which the extent of an applicant’s financial disadvantage may not be well represented by their family income. Applicants who feel that this is the case for them are welcome to submit a preliminary application and describe their circumstances. They should remain aware, however, that it is very unlikely that an applicant whose family income is above the amount to qualify for a BC student loan will be invited to submit a secondary application.

Section 4: Submitting a Secondary Application

4.1 Completing a Secondary Application

When you are short listed to complete a secondary application, you must submit the following supplemental materials:

- Three letters of reference; 2 from teachers and one from a community member such as a coach, volunteer supervisor, family friend, employer etc.
 - These letters in PDF format can be submitted electronically to NP2M@unbc.ca, or by paper in a sealed envelope to the NP2M office at 3333 University Way, Prince George BC V2N 4Z9

These items are described in more detail below, and the letters of reference should be acquired after you are notified that you have been shortlisted for a secondary application.

4.2 Letters of Reference

Applicants are required to submit references from three referees; 2 from teachers and one from a community member such as a coach, volunteer supervisor, employer etc. In support of their applications, the three letters of reference should focus on any of the following abilities:

- Teachers can comment on:
 - Academic performance and work habits

4.3 Introductory questions

Complete the online questions about yourself via Blackboard.

These brief questions may ask you about experiences in your life, why you wish to be a medical doctor, who is your hero, what is your favorite subject and why, etc. Brief, 1-2 sentence answers are required.

Section 5: Application Irregularities

5.1 Application Irregularities / Areas of Concern

At any time in the application process an applicant may be flagged by an interviewer, file reviewer or member of the admissions office staff as possibly demonstrating evidence of characteristics inconsistent with the University of Northern British Columbia's code of conduct. In some cases, Admissions Office staff may contact third parties in order to explore the area of concern that has been brought forward. Once sufficient information has been gathered, the application will be reviewed by a sub-committee of the admissions committee, where the concern will be reviewed and considered. Notwithstanding any scores achieved by that application, the admissions committee reserves the right to terminate any application pursuant to this "area of concern" process.

We reserve the right to revoke participation in the program if evidence of unsubstantiated self-reporting becomes evident.

Section 6: Interviews

6.1 Interviews

Interviews will take place at the University of Northern British Columbia. The address is 3333 University Way, Prince George BC V2N 4Z9.

Topics for these interviews include ethical dilemmas, life skills, academic issues, and critical thinking. There is no “right answer,” but the answers demonstrate the applicants thinking.

Applicants will be interviewed by a variety of people, including clinical and basic science faculty, students, and community members.

The NP2M Program may cover the cost of economy travel and one night’s accommodation in Prince George for all out-of-town applicants invited to interview.
