EDUC 446 – Aboriginal Community Knowledge Exchange Teacher-Candidate Presentations – Dec 3rd

The B.Ed's circle expanded to include several honoured and prominent community guests to witness the students' learning journey. It opened with drumming a healing song and set the tone for the gathering. Each student spoke about the ways in which they came to greater knowing about Aboriginal epistemology, education, and most importantly, themselves. "As we sat in the circle and listened amongst community members, it was apparent how each emotion, word, and personality ran through each of us. The students gave heartfelt presentations on their understanding and experience of Aboriginal Epistemology", said Teresa Bartel. Several of the guests, which included Aboriginal Elders and others who in some way touched the program and the students' lives, offered their gems of wisdom to these future educators. "This is so good and really touched my heart", said one Elder.

The theme for this gathering, Sharing Our Learning & Giving Back, was designed to encourage the value of reciprocity. "The students truly embraced these aboriginal knowledges by engaging the aboriginal community and their own families. They demonstrated that knowing requires a commitment to action and comes from the heart. I am so proud of each one of these future educators. This was not an easy class!" said Marian Laval. One student remarked how she discovered "the epistemology of community, family, and relationships" in this class and how she plans to embrace this more in her life. "Many thanks to everyone who shared, laughed, sang, and feasted with us. This was a strong and memorable day. We are ending this semester with our bodies, minds, and hearts full!" ~ Marian Laval Instructor
