EDUC101 Introduction to Education

Date: Mondays, January 5, 2016 – April 11, 2016
Time: 9:00 am – 12:00 pm
Instructor: Audrey Woods
Location: UNBC Terrace Campus

Education 101 is designed for people who are going to be doing some form of teaching in their careers: it is not exclusive to those who intend to work in schools. Teaching is part of many careers: for example forestry, nursing, early childhood educators, mining, cooking, and business. The course will provide you with a basic understanding of what is involved in communicating information to others in both formal and informal settings. It will engage you in active learning with many examples to build your understanding of various educational environments. If you are interested in any aspects of education and teaching this is the course for you.

MASTER OF EDUCATION

Sharing the Blue Crayon. How to Integrate Social, Emotional and Literacy Learning (2015) by Mary Anne Buckley. Read about the book, watch a youtube introduction to the book. She talks about her book Sharing the Blue Crayon "which shows teachers how to incorporate social and emotional learning into a busy day and then extend these skills to literacy lessons for young children". There is a free PDF detailed study guide that you can download from Stenhouse. The book is also available from other book sellers.
